

A review of U.S.
presidential elections

Elections come and go.
Results last a lifetime.

Set your sights on the long term

Investor doubts may seem especially prevalent during presidential election years when campaigns spotlight the country's challenges. Yet even with election year rhetoric amplifying the negative, it's important to focus on your vision for the future.

Keep in mind the following:

- Successful long-term investors stay the course and rely on time rather than timing.
- Investment success has depended more on the strength and resilience of the American economy than on which candidate or party holds office.
- The experience and time-tested process of your investment manager can be an important contributor to your long-term investment success.

"The only limit to our realization of tomorrow will be our doubts of today."

– Franklin D. Roosevelt

Red, blue and you

Beliefs about which political party is best for the markets might discourage you from investing. But as you can see from the chart below, whether a Republican or a Democrat claims victory hasn't been a deciding factor in how a $10,000 investment made at the beginning of an election year looked 10 years down the road.

Growth of a hypothetical $10,000 investment made at the beginning of an election year

Each 10-year period begins on January 1 of the first year shown and ends on December 31 of the final year shown. For example, the first period listed (1936-1945) covers 1/1/36 through 12/31/45.

Class F-2 shares were first offered on August 1, 2008. Class F-2 share results prior to the date of first sale are hypothetical based on Class A share results without a sales charge, adjusted for estimated annual expenses. The results shown are before taxes on fund distributions and sale of fund shares. Past results are not predictive of results in future periods. Results for other share classes may differ.

Investors should carefully consider investment objectives, risks, charges and expenses. This and other important information is contained in the fund prospectus and summary prospectus, which can be obtained from a financial professional and should be read carefully before investing.

If used after December 31, 2019, this brochure must be accompanied by a current American Funds quarterly statistical update.
